

ELMO Connect

Streamline employee communications

Boost team collaboration and enhance corporate culture

A primary challenge for any organisation with a remote or disparate workforce is maintaining effective communication across a dispersed group of individuals. With the global COVID-19 pandemic forcing many organisations to implement alternative working arrangements, often for the first time, this challenge is exacerbated. Many employers have reported a dip in employee engagement and a reduction in team collaboration – and therefore less innovation – largely due to a reliance on old technology such as email.

ELMO Connect resolves these issues by offering instant messaging functionality and integration with Zoom video conferencing.

Organisations will deliver rapid benefits to their workforce without needing to invest in complex and time-consuming integrations themselves. Team communication and collaboration can occur from the same place that employees make leave applications, undertake their learning activities, and complete their performance appraisals. All this unlocks high user adoption and a seamless employee experience across an organisation, while staying connected.
